Whether you are a GeneSys user or simply interested in Jarrah's range of services the new website is easy to navigate and provides information on the following areas:

- Assessment Tools
- Training

GeneSys Resources

Test Administrators

For those who require documentation or instructions relating to administering GeneSys Psychometric Assessments, simply go to the 'resources' option in the left-hand menu of the Jarrah Psychology homepage, and select 'test administrator resources'. Here you'll see a list of resources for both personality and cognitive exercises. These include both the paper and pencil and a computer-based administration formats. In this section, you will also find the administration forms: candidate release and pre-assessment. This release form (or some version of it) is mandatory because the candidate formally consents to the testing process when it is signed.

Candidate Resources

There is also some useful information for candidates on the Jarrah Psychology website under the 'candidate resources' heading. Here you will see the example questions for both cognitive and personality exercises that candidates might like to try before sitting the assessment(s). Also available is the 'How to prepare' document, which tells candidates what steps to take prior to their assessment (this may seem elementary, but it can help put some candidates at ease).

All of these documents can be printed straight from the site, or downloaded for your convenience.

GeneSys Technical Support

For information and download of GeneSys technical support files, please see that section of the 'resources' page. Generally you will not need these unless you are having software issues, or you are planning on re-installing GeneSys. Remember the GeneSys technical support is available by calling the national freecall number 1800 500 849.

Training Calendar & Catalogue

The Jarrah Psychology website also includes a link to download a current GeneSys training calendar or a copy of our current Catalogue.

If you require further information on any of our consulting services please call us on 1800 500 849.

Changes to GeneSys Online

Recently, you may have noticed some changes to GeneSys Online. The website has been updated by Psytech, and boasts several new features and improved functions. This is a summary of the major updates that have taken place.

You may also have noticed a new link on the GeneSys homepage (www.genesysonline.net) that says 'Register for an online account'. This is a convenient way to create more Genesys online account logons for your staff. If you would like further information, please contact us on 1800 500 849.

15FQ+ & VMI are now available unsupervised

We are pleased to announce that there is now the option of completing the 15 Factor Questionnaire Plus (15FQ+) and Values and Motives Inventory (VMI) as unsupervised assessments. This means that invitations may be emailed to candidates, who are then able to complete these assessments at a time and lo-

If you would like to take advantage of this option, please contact us and we will be happy to enable it in your account.

Abstract Reasoning Test available supervised online

The Abstract Reasoning Test (ART) has been developed and is particularly appropriate for use with graduate, managerial and professional roles which require the incumbent to assimilate complex logical material, identify the patterns underlying this material and draw appropriate inferences.

The ART only takes 30 minutes to complete. It is not available for unsupervised administration and reporting is currently only available online.

Three main areas of change to GeneSys Online

Although there are a number of updates, for the vast majority of users, the changes only affect three main areas. (For a complete rundown of all changes, please contact us and we will be happy to discuss it.)

A Setup Option.

This includes the facility to change passwords, pin numbers and forwarding e-mail addresses. An option to copy your e-mail invitations is also available in the setup. However, Jarrah recommends that if you need to update any of these fields, you contact us before doing so.

New Session Types.

Group Sessions

In this option, administrators no longer require a different setup of each respondent. Once a group session is created, a session ID is generated. This session ID is then given to a group of respondents, who use it to log onto the site. As respondents register their details, their names populate the administrator's session. Once all are registered, the administrator simply authorises the session, and can view

Archiving / Deleting Sessions.

Old sessions can now be archived or deleted. Archiving a session allows you to save your data within your GeneSys online account, but hide it from view. This enables you to keep your 'Sessions' screen clear.
